Profile

I'm a final year BA architecture student studying at Plymouth University with a goal to become a fully qualified architect and advance my skills by working alongside professionals. I enjoy stretching my creative abilities in each design project through drawing techniques or developing my skills on computer modelling programmes. My positive attitude and confidence within the course was personally acknowledged by the Year 1 program leader after being invited to work as a student ambassador for my school. This continued into my second year where I was also selected to guide students in the digital fabrication suite.
