Profile

I'm a final year BA architecture student studying at Plymouth University with a goal to become a fully qualified architect and advance my skills by working alongside professionals. My positive attitude and confidence within the course was personally acknowledged by the Year 1 program leader after being invited to work as a student ambassador for my faculty. This continued into my second year where I was also selected to guide students in the new digital fabrication suite. My previous job at Morrison's as a Customer Assistant taught me many valuable skills, including interpersonal communication skills with customers and the ability to deal with difficult situations professionally. The retail environment has given me experience with working as part of a team, and using my initiative when working by myself. I have transferred these skills into my degree programme, working in group projects and individual design projects.
